

Georgetown candidates address voters at forum

If the voter turnout April 5 is anything like the candidates' attendance at Thursday night's forum, there won't be enough ballots to go around next month.

Every candidate for the Georgetown City Council and Georgetown School Board made a brief introduction at a program this week sponsored by the Georgetown Women's Political Caucus.

An audience of about 35 voters listened as school board hopefuls — Walter Doerfler Jr., Nick Sikes, Clare Mashburn, Don Hewlett and Harold Parker — spoke on some of the issues.

The reason DOERFLER is running for the board is simple: "My children will be in the Georgetown School system next year and I'd like to see that they — and all the other children — get the quality education they deserve."

A lifetime resident of the Georgetown area, he said he sees no faults with the present board of trustees. Doerfler said, however, that the board must be able to meet the challenges of a growing school district. "We need more classrooms and more teachers."

He said he will put his support behind every school program, "whether it be football, baseball or one-act plays." He stressed that discipline must come from the parents, but the school system should be prepared to punish students who disrupt the classroom.

SIKES introduced himself as a professional educator who has served in Texas public schools for 11 years. "I feel my experience in school administration and in listening to board members provides me with the background and knowledge that perhaps doesn't exist at this time."

Sikes said he will work for the best quality education "given the tax dollars we have to spend." He will devote time to bringing all parts of the school district into closer cooperation.

"We must all keep in mind that schools are for children — not for board members and really not for parents. Kids should have some say in their education," he said. Sikes added he will rely on research and studies to keep Georgetown schools up-to-date.

CLARE MASHBURN said that as a mother, former substitute teacher, and a participant in several school-related projects, "I am always in contact with people who give me constant feedback on education in general and education in Georgetown."

She said she sees the school board as a job to make policies, evaluate policies and evaluate administration. "I have the time to do the job and I'm willing to do research to see that it done correctly", Mashburn said.

The implementation of the quarter system will require development of new policies, Mashburn added. She said that the quarter system will allow flexibility of curriculum and give students the chance "to be educated for their leisure time."

Among her activities, she serves as superintendent and supervisor in the Grace Episcopal Church Sunday School.

DON HEWLETT, 39-year-old president of the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce, has four children in the Georgetown School system. He has served on the local Hospital Board and other civic positions. A position on the school board would give him opportunity to further serve his community, Hewlett said.

Hewlett said that two Georgetown School issues are of primary concern — the curriculum and the counseling system. He said he recognizes the need for both the "trade school approach and the academic approach" to education. Hewlett said that Georgetown must provide programs to prepare the student who chooses to go to college.

"Perhaps the pendulum has swung too far toward the trade school approach," he said. Hewlett suggested more stress on college prep programs. To complement this, he said a strong guidance counseling program is needed to assist students in deciding whether to go from high school to college or to a job.

HAROLD PARKER, an incumbent school trustee, said that in his past three years on the Georgetown School Board, "I believe I have made substantial contributions" to the school district. Although the board has finished the task of building a new high school, there is more work to be done, Parker added.

The fact that the school district is making the move to open a new school building will necessitate several changes, such as new facilities and renovations in the lower grade levels, Parker said.

He said he supports the present school administration, headed by Superintendent Jack Frost. He said he trusts the administration to handle the problems of teacher evaluation and curriculum. "I think we have good guidelines for evaluation of teachers and curriculum," Parker said.

Evaluating teachers is a big responsibility, he said. "Georgetown has some of the finest teachers anywhere," he added.

City Council hopefuls speak on local issues

Candidates for the Georgetown City Council spoke Thursday at a forum held by the Georgetown Women's Political Caucus.

The candidates included Harry Gold, Hubert Brock, Garry Hinesley, Loran Jones, Wiggy Shell, John Doerfler, and Debbie Riddle.

GOLD said that his experience as a city council member for the past eight years and as a businessman is an asset. "Whenever I have faced a decision, I have tried to study every facet of the issue," he explained.

He said that in the past, the City Council has tried to work together so that once a decision is reached, it will benefit all the people without putting an undue financial burden on the community.

"You get knowledge from experience," Gold said. He said knowledgeable council members are needed to make careful decisions that won't put a strain on the taxpayers.

BROCK, who has served six terms on the City Council, said the position takes "a lot of time, effort, understanding — and very often, compassion." He said he can feel the pulse of the community and that he is experienced in business and financial affairs.

The council members "don't always vote alike," Brock said. "But once the vote is taken we pull together as the majority went."

He said that important issues in Georgetown are the needs for a water treatment system, Please turn to page 12

Rate increase heads agenda

It's taken 10 months and two rate consultants to do it, but the Georgetown City Council is finally prepared to take action on granting a rate increase for the General Telephone Company.

From every indication, however, the proposal that the council is ready to act on is radically different from what General Telephone first requested.

The City Council will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 p. m. in the council chambers at City Hall to consider the recommendation of its new rate consultant, Dr. Jack Hopper.

Hopper's report on the rate issue was delivered to Georgetown Mayor Joe Crawford and other city officials late this week.

Although the contents of the recommendation have not been disclosed, Hopper admitted that the report proposes a rate increase "considerably lower than what the telephone company has proposed."

He said General Telephone officials will be on hand Tuesday to dispute the figures he has arrived at.

General Telephone requested in June permission to increase the 1-party business phone rate 60 percent and the 1-party residential rate 31 percent. Please turn to page 12

Act today, Save a buck!

The National Newspaper Association this week reported to its members that postage rates on newspapers, both in county and elsewhere, are expected to increase 60 to 80 percent this year.

Though the increase in mailing costs will undoubtedly result in higher prices on newspaper subscriptions, it will not affect the SUN's current Save-a-Buck campaign renewals.

But time is running out on this special offer. We urge our readers to use the coupon on page 6 of this issue and attend to this chore at once.

Lots of interesting reading is ahead, and SUN folks are sincerely dedicated to the idea of furnishing readers with the latest news, fully and accurately written.

What is more, advertising, when utilized for shopping, will save each subscriber many dollars each year. Now, more than any time in many years, this is important, too.

Won't you act today so that you can take advantage of the $1 off offer and assure yourself of another year of continued good reading? Thanks.

"No owner of any dog shall permit such dog to run at large within the City limits. At large shall be intended to mean off the premises of the owner and not under the complete control of the owner, either by leash, cord, chain, or otherwise."

Dog owners fined in law violations

Two more Georgetown dog owners were found guilty this week of violating the city's 7-month-old leash law.

Municipal Judge Timothy Maresh assessed a $15 fine in each case.

Both pet owners said they would comply with the law in the future.

Judge Maresh warned that the maximum penalty of $200 might be levied if either of the citizens is convicted of the violation again.

One of the men tried under the leash law Wednesday remarked, "I would like to see this law followed all the way through. If the city really did enforce it, there would be 100 people on trial, not just two or three."

Fred Langenegger, the city's part-time dog warden, said he will continue to file complaints against dog owners who violate the law.

Three citizens have been convicted so far under the dog control ordinance.

The law states: "No owner of any dog shall permit such dog to run at large within the city limits. At large shall be intended to mean off the premises of the owner and not under the complete control of the owners, either by leash, cord, chain or otherwise."

"If any dog at large, or not under the complete control of its owner, overturns a securely covered garbage container, or removes any garbage from any such securely covered container, then such dog shall be conclusively presumed to be a mischievous dog and a dog of mischievous propensities and tendencies."

"Any dog found within the City in violation of any of the provisions of this chapter shall immediately be impounded and kept for a period of seventy-two hours and then disposed of."

Week's news in a nutshell

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC CORPORATION Information Director Gene Attal announced Tuesday that the local plant will terminate the positions of an estimated 150 employees on April 18. The gas turbine manufacturing operation at the plant will end at that time.

The shutdown in operations will primarily affect workers directly involved in manufacturing, he said. With the termination of these positions, 350 employees of the local plant will have lost their jobs this year.

The plant will undergo extensive modification by the heavy motor division of Westinghouse. It is scheduled to reopen in late 1975 for the production of large AC and DC motors and DC generators.

COMPLETION OF THE NEW $2.2 MILLION GEORGETOWN high school building was announced Monday by Supervising Architect Ralph Ball. Ball told school trustees that after a few minor repairs and a clean-up by construction crews, the building will be ready for their final inspection.

GEORGETOWN URBAN RENEWAL AGENCY filed a report that listed $420,696.61 expenditures for the 1974 calendar year. Rodney E. Montgomery, UR executive director, sent the agency's annual report to Mayor Joe Crawford on March 12.

I am eagerly anticipating the publication of a book by H. B. Fox, otherwise known as the Circleville Philosopher, which is due out in the very near future. As our readers know, Fox is both wise and funny. Mix the two and we should have an exceptional book. One outlet in Georgetown will be the Heritage Printing Company next door to the SUN.

HERE'S A BIT of very important information: You can get 800 pounds of beef off an acre of land. You can get 200,000 pounds of green turtle meat out of an acre of salt water five feet deep. That turtle is a lot better than beef. Not much fat. Hardly any cholesterol. Low in calories. Tastes great too. Now all we have to do is get an acre of land with a five foot hole in it, fill it with water, plant some turtles, pour in the salt and plug up our ears so we can't hear what the neighbors say when the big turtles start crawling all over the place!

But it is a thought. Might solve the world's food shortage.

Beginning to feel your years? The great biologist Thomas Henry Huxley lived well into his ninth decade and was productive until the day he died. He believed, he said, that the essence of genius was to carry the spirit of the child into old age. Huxley knew how to live and like it. He never lost the excitement of being alive. He was asked how he got that way, what was the secret of his youthfulness?

WITHOUT HESITATION he answered. "Never think any old thoughts, forget your aches and pains, stay interested in what goes on, live in the future and not in the past, and thank God every day."

My old friend Neely Landrum was like that. At 80 he lived an active life, riding horses, playing golf and carrying the burden of a $50 million business enterprise on his shoulders. He never referred or deferred to his age, never mentioned his physical problems and was intensely interested in everything that went on around him, especially with the young people on the Southwestern University campus.

Neely had a massive heart attack and two days later was still fighting for his life in the emergency ward of the local hospital the last time I talked to him. Dr. Gaddy let me slip into the room and, very softly, I eased up beside him. "Son," he said, "I sure have been sick."

"I know it," I told him, "but you have got this thing licked and you and I still have a lot of golf to play." He looked at me and his eyes flashed. He was smiling when I left him but he didn't make it. A couple of days later he kept another appointment.

Some 25,000 American passports were reported — I say "reported" — lost or stolen this year! What's that to you?

If a big-time thief could steal any one thing in your house he would pass up the silverware, jewelry and even your cash if he had a chance. Instead, he would steal your passport.

FOR ILLEGAL TRAFFIC across international borders a passport can be priceless.

So precious are these 3 million documents which our State Department issues every year that some are deliberately sold to underworld connections for thousands of dollars each.

Recently, an assassin tried to murder South Korea's President Park but killed Park's wife instead. That professional killer from Japan got into Korea with an altered passport.

This will help you understand why Frances Knight, director of our nation's passport office, does not sleep well these nights — with 25,000 passports this year "unaccounted for."

It's not just passports being misused by criminals. Credit cards, airline tickets, birth certificates, other documents which can be sold, stolen or counterfeited are costing honest Americans from $1.5 billion to $3 billion annually.

But it is the passport in the hands of a drug smuggler, a kidnapper, an assassin, a revolutionary which affords the most hideous potential for misuse.

USING FRAUDULENT Social Security documents, one person has been known to collect as many as seven benefit checks under different names.

With a false-face passport any outsider, however unwanted, can enter the United States. And the present potential is for unwanted thousands to enter.

In the state of California there is a regular bus run across the border returning illegal aliens.

There is a thriving business in the marriage racket whereby an "arranger" will arrange for an alien to marry a citizen for a substantial down payment. The alien is then brought to the United States as a dependent who in due course applies for citizenship.

BUT BOTH PARTIES to this arrangement are forever subject to blackmail by the "arranger."

Similarly, fraudulent documents are useful in adopting babies and, similarly, the adopters remain vulnerable to blackmail.

Drug traffickers abroad seek American passports at any price. There is no way to compute the percentage of robberies and burglaries in the United States in which the primary objective is that one precious document.

In the United States Senate right now is a bill (S. 3001) which establishes more realistic penalties for document fraud. If this is the best we can do it's the least we can do.

Non-smokers need relief

Non-smokers of Texas — unite! Use your influence to help secure a state law creating sanctuaries in public places where you can go without inhaling the killing fumes of another person's cigarettes.

SENATE BILL 59 submitted by Senator Jack Ogg, and two house bills sponsored by Representatives Lyndon Olson, Senfronia Thompson and John Sutton essentially prohibit smoking in public buildings where those allergic to it or otherwise seriously impaired by tobacco smoke cannot escape it.

Wednesday this week the Ogg bill was approved by the Senate and now faces action in the House of Representatives.

The proposed bill would in no way impair the privilege of anyone to smoke but would permit each citizen to have the same right — to breathe smoke-filled air or not, as he chooses. Since this is the purpose of the "equal protection" promised by the Constitution, it can hardly be controversial, especially with the provision that designated smoking areas be permitted in all places where smoking is prohibited. Indeed, only then will every citizen — both the two-thirds who don't smoke and the one-third who do — have equal rights.

IF YOU AGREE, then write to your state representative and urge the need for a comprehensive bill which would include hospitals, doctor's waiting rooms, government buildings, lecture halls and restaurants, as well as other public places already named in the bills that have been submitted.

This has become a serious matter to non-smokers, especially those who are allergic to tobacco smoke. If the tobacco companies were really on the ball they would recognize the problem and be in the fore-front of the effort to give relief to those who need it.

Gasoline follies

Buy a car to stimulate the economy, and then avoid driving it to save gasoline. This is the kind of ironic advice that is calling on Americans' sense of humor as well as sense of responsibility while their government tries to decide What To Do. Cut down on gasoline, they are urged, even as their gas dealers are exhorted to sell, sell, sell.

Television commentator David Brinkley's wry solution is perhaps too radical: Keep your car polished but parked, and sit in it once in a while on Sunday. More seriously, Republican Representative Peyser of New York urges government action against oil companies' alleged pressure tactics to increase retail gas sales — "blackmailing our gas station operators into subverting gas conservation efforts."

Certainly the government should be even-handed in expecting industry as well as consumer cooperation in energy conservation. If it isn't, no one should be surprised when America's competitive system offers motorists free dishes to buy the gas the President has asked them to leave in the pump. —Christian Science Monitor

Environmental study completed on project for water treatment

An environmental study completed late this week has recommended that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers grant the land lease and easements for the proposed Georgetown Water Treatment Facility in the project area of the North Fork dam.

The Environmental Assessment report on the water treatment system was delivered to the Corps office in Fort Worth.

The report was finished Wednesday afternoon when Dr. David S. Dibble, director of the Texas Archeological Survey, submitted a statement that the project planned by the City of Georgetown "will not adversely affect identifiable archeological resources of scientific or historic values."

Earlier sections of the study state that plant and animal life will not be threatened by construction of the system.

"The results of implementation of this project can have nothing but good effects on the environment," the Environmental Assessment concludes.

Leo Wood, Georgetown city manager, explained that the city has requested easements for the lines to pipe water out of the North Fork lake after the dam is completed in 1978.

The city has also asked the Corps of Engineers for a long-term lease on a 13-acre site for the proposed Georgetown Water Treatment Plant, which will purify the water.

Corps officials have verbally approved the city's request, Wood said. However, the Environmental Assessment was needed to secure formal approval from the Corps office in Washington.

The water treatment system would provide Georgetown and surrounding communities with up to 10 million gallons of water per day — about twice the present capacity.

"Residential and industrial development will be limited unless the project can be implemented," the environmental study states.

"To encourage new construction and new demands on the existing water facility would be foolish. The new facility will allow growth that must now be curtailed."

The report says that the ultimate character of the North Fork project area and the Georgetown area will be upgraded by the plant.

"Developed and underdeveloped areas can be annexed into the city after the new facility is built," the study states, "thus providing a water supply to areas not served and encouraging much needed housing starts."

"The relationship of the project's effect on growth in the city and surrounding areas is in complete harmony with the area's residents. At present, the status of several much-needed housing projects is doubtful, awaiting the outcome of the application for easements and the land lease."

City Manager Wood said he was concerned that possible archeological discoveries in the project area might prohibit construction of the water treatment system.

Dr. Dibble was therefore asked by the city to carefully look at the area last Saturday, March 15.

In his report, the archeologist stated that earlier studies "have provided strong evidence for relatively intensive human occupancy of the upper San Gabriel River drainage over the last 10,000 years."

But after investigating the areas which will be affected by the construction of a water intake structure, raw water lines, and the water treatment plant, Dibble concluded: "In terms of demonstrating project conflicts with significant archeological features or sites, the results of this survey were largely

Dear Mr. S.:

Am a bit late with my check for renewal, but the arthritis has been really rough and writing is really a chore when it is so bad.

The weather has been anything but pleasant! We have had a rough winter and March has really come in "like a lion"! Wind gusting up to 35 mph today and partly cloudy. You have had some bad times, also, according to the Sun.

Would so love to see Georgetown again, especially the Dam on N. Gabriel. If I can ever feel like driving that far, I will do so. Would take me at least 2 days as I couldn't drive that far in one day any more. Would so love to see the Bluebonnets again. They are always so beautiful on Hi-way 29.

Have so enjoyed the articles "Miss Clara" has had in the paper.

Good luck and God Bless all of you and crew.

Law officers discuss safety at PTA session

If you're a motorist who's tempted to pass a school bus along the road, don't do it while the bus is flashing its red warning lights.

As the Georgetown PTA learned Tuesday night, passing a bus in that situation will cost the driver a fine of at least $27.50 and possibly as much as $200.

Police Chief John Shearin and other local law enforcement officials discussed safety for pedestrians and motorists before about 50 concerned parents and teachers at the Georgetown Elementary School.

According to Department of Public Safety Sergeant Fred Hurst, most of the people passing busses illegally do it unintentionally. He said he only knows of only 12 cases in which motorists unlawfully passed a bus in an aggravated situation. Most people who do so are either late for work, or do not realize how serious the violation is, Hurst said.

The only legal way to pass a school bus is to wait until the red lights cease flashing, when the driver signals the motorists to proceed, or when the bus resumes motion.

Chief Shearin said, "We are using radar guns to slow down motorists even though it may not be popular."

The officials asked motorists to call the sheriff's office or the police department to report instances of illegally passing of busses.

"The requirements for bus drivers no longer end with just being able to breathe," said Jerry Graham, business manager of the Georgetown Independent School District.

State requirements now include that drivers be properly licensed with a chauffeur's license; have a driver license check yearly and be checked annually against a point penalty system.

"Locally, we make the drivers aware of the laws, and we emphasize discipline on the busses," Graham said.

Asked about the safety of the actual busses, Graham said that in the past they were not very safe. "Now the entire seats are padded, and the bodies are more soundly constructed." According to Graham, bus lighting is better, and so are the braking systems.

Though no seat belts are required, state law will prohibit riders from standing in the aisles of busses next year.

Homes Of Distinction

I'm extremely proud of the home I'm building now for the Oscar Kleins in Durham Park, west of Liberty Hill.

As a builder, I stress quality construction from beginning to end.

Steel reinforced foundations. All framing on 16 inch centers. Hand crafted ash cabinets. Hand finished paneling. Every detail to perfection. In addition, I depend on the quality of Frederick air conditioning and heating systems, and GE appliances.

I want the custom home I build for you to be a monument to your own good taste and style of living. Then I can take pride in pointing it out and saying, "I built that home."

Excellence is my only standard.

Rare cemetery uncovered at Granger Dam project

Rare Indian artifacts, including a prehistoric cemetery with 25 human skeletons, were discovered during a 3-year archeological project in the Granger Dam area on the San Gabriel River in east Williamson County, a recent report shows.

The report was published this month by the Texas Archeological Survey. Elton R. Prewitt, an archeologist with the Balcones Research Center in Austin, conducted the project.

Prewitt uncovered the finds at the Loeve-Fox Site, situated in an alluvial terrace on the left bank of the San Gabriel River.

"The excavations at the Loeve-Fox Site have resulted in the collection of 12,486 artifacts (including 11,918 waste flint flakes), varied faunal remains, portions of 25 human skeletons and other data pertaining to the physical and cultural history of the site," the report on the project states.

The cemetery, at least 1000 years old, is thought to be the most important discovery at the site.

"The area encompassed by the cemetery is essentially circular and is about 10 feet in diameter," the study reads.

"In general terms, the lower or apparently earlier interments are in a semi-flexed position; that is, the knees are drawn up to a 90-degree angle or less from the axis of the spine with the feet near the pelvis, and the hands are usually placed on the pelvis or on the legs.

"The higher interments are in a tightly flexed position; the knees are tightly folded against the chest with the hands under or near the chin."

Nineteen of the 25 individuals represent single interments, the report explains.

A notable point is that, with one exception, the body is always pointed in a north-northwest to south-southeast direction.

"Another aspect of the cemetery in general is the inclusion of miscellaneous material within the fill. Projectile point fragments, numerous flint flakes, occasional burned rocks and various animal bone are scattered throughout the cemetery," Prewitt reported.

Six of the skeletons were associated with arrow points, in such a manner as to suggest that the penetration of projectiles was the cause of death, the report states.

Prewitt said, "At least one individual within the cemetery is interpreted as being of differential status, possibly a shaman or someone with outstanding or unusual competence in certain aspects of the society's activities."

"This is based on the inclusion of a conch shell pendant in one of the graves. Such raw materials as conch shells are foreign to the region and artifacts made of them most likely were prized possessions and objects or symbols of outstanding competence, wealth or power."

"That such an object should be left with the body of the possessor at the time of interment may reflect the role of that person in the affairs of the society," Prewitt added.

Besides the cemetery, artifacts included arrow heads, pottery, and tools.

An analysis of the skeletons showed that "arthritis was a very common disease among this group of people, particularly among the middle-aged males and females. Overall, 50 percent of the adults show signs of arthritis."

The excavation was funded by a grant through the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The Texas Archeological Survey has applied for a similar grant for a project in the North Fork dam area.

Salado, Hutto and Johnson City in the district tournament at Jarrell.

It was the team's fourth year in a row to win the district volleyball honors under Coach Susan Goode.

Miss Goode explained that the team will now go to the regional volleyball tournament at Brenham next month.

The varsity girls posted a 14-1 season record, which includes the three victories in Thursday's tournament.

In the first round of volleyball play, Jarrell defeated Salado, 15-7. Also in that round, Johnson City beat Liberty Hill by scores of 15-5 and 15-12.

Hutto was Jarrell's next victim, as the girls won 15-5 and 15-8.

A SINGLE — smiling Mark Ott kept the rally going in the ninth inning with a hard single to help Southwestern win its league opener over Huston-Tillotson.

"WOULD YOU PLEASE EXPLAIN that again?" Coach Jim Mallon visits with the umpire on a questioned call that gave Huston-Tillotson an advantage in their game with Southwestern in Austin Thursday. A line drive apparently caught by the third baseman and a tag on which would have been a double play ended with the umpire calling that the ball hit the ground and the run scored. This initiated the rally that saw Huston-Tillotson go ahead 7-6 in the seventh inning.

Pirates win Big State opener, 10-7

It was give and take for the Southwestern University Pirates Thursday as they won their Big State Conference opener 10-7 from the Huston-Tillotson Rams in Austin.

First the Bucs gave. Leading 6-1 behind the airtight pitching of Steve Wenzel into the bottom half of the seventh inning, the Bucs through a series of unlucky events and errors saw the host Rams prance across home plate six times to take a 7-6 lead.

A RUN — Jim Miller, who leads the Bucs in rbi's, scores one of his own as the Pirates topped Huston-Tillotson 10-7 in a last-inning rally.

Then the Bucs took. After a scoreless eighth inning with Huston-Tillotson still apparently holding the edge in momentum, Southwestern came out in the top of the ninth with bats blazing.

First Kenny Wenzel walked, Kenny Cmekrek singled, and Frank Rodriguez placed a perfect bunt to advance the runners on a sacrifice.

Then Jim Miller blasted a hard single past the shortstop, tried to stretch it into a double, got caught in the hot-box, and escaped on an error that allowed the winning run to score.

From then on it was downhill all the way as the batting order went completely around finally ending where it had started with a pop-up fly by Kenny Wenzel.

Meanwhile, Garry Ivy came on in relief to handcuff the rest of the Rams and Southwestern had a league win.

This weekend the Bucs will be in Longview for a conference doubleheader with LeTourneau College. Game time is 1 p.m. Saturday.

Then the Bucs return to San Gabriel Park Sunday afternoon for a doubleheader with strong Mayville State College with the first game starting at 2 p.m.

Students conduct survey opinions on growth in Georgetown

For the next 2½ weeks, a research methods class from Southwestern University will visit randomly-selected families in Georgetown to collect information on what citizens think about their community.

Dan Hilliard, professor of the sociology class conducting the survey, said the project is aimed at two points:

- "First of all, the survey attempts to find out the people's general attitudes and opinions on the present and future development of Georgetown," Hilliard said.

- "The project will also gather people's ideas on what programs the city should support with tax revenues and other money.

STUDENTS working on the survey are Mike Giblin, Jimmy Inness, Richard Kalmbach, Fritz Lang, David Lester, Paul Lowry and James Willis.

Giblin noted that the survey is a joint project between the university and the Georgetown City Building Department.

Each student in the class will visit 30 Georgetown homes, for a total of 210 interviews, Giblin said.

Professor Hilliard said the families selected to participate represent a cross section of the Georgetown community.

"The results of the survey will not make a final statement about Georgetown's growth," Hilliard said, "but the survey will give the city a point of departure, to generate discussion on where to go and what to do next."

TOM SAMS, city building official, said the survey will be quite valuable to the city.

"This sampling technique will give the city a feel for what the people are thinking, what the people want," Sams said.

He said the results of the project will be turned over to the Georgetown Citizens Advisory Commission for consideration.

Sams noted that one area in which the survey will help the city is Georgetown's application for its Community Development funds from the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The city will receive nearly $1 million in federal money over the next five years, but one of the prerequisites for getting the money is citizen input in the goals of the program, he said.

"THE SURVEY will give us some direction to go and what services or projects to consider under Community Development," Sams added.

He said that the city had planned to conduct a mail-out questionnaire but that the university survey should end up with more representative results.

Part one of the survey asks the interview subject to identify the five services the city should give priority to.

THE SERVICES listed include such items as street repair, flood protection, recreation facilities, increased services to minority groups, code enforcement, fire and police protection, public transportation, removal of substandard structures, health and counseling services, and water system improvements.

The survey also asks for opinions on growth in the Georgetown area. Subjects are asked to mark the degree to which they agree or disagree with such statements as:

- "On the whole, the new North Fork Dam development will be beneficial to the citizens of Georgetown."

- "If the building of new shopping facilities results in the closing of downtown stores, people like me will be hurt."

- "Everything considered, Georgetown should do more to attract new industry."

- "Increasing the population of Georgetown would ruin its desirable atmosphere."

Jarrell community to meet Tuesday to discuss bonds

A public meeting is scheduled Tuesday to discuss the proposed $650,000 bond program for a new Jarrell High School building.

The meeting will begin at 8 p. m. in the Jarrell School auditorium.

School trustees and other officials will answer questions about the bond program.

Residents of the Jarrell Independent School District will go to the polls Saturday, March 29, to vote on the proposal.

Fact sheets about the bond program were sent home with Jarrell students this week.

The statements explain that proceeds from the sale of the bonds will be used to construct and equip a new high school building on the Jarrell campus.

The new facility will include seven classrooms, a new science laboratory with lecture rooms, a new cafeteria and kitchen, a home economics department, a new library, and learning resource center, adequate restrooms, work areas, storage space and administrative offices.

Jarrell School Superintendent A. L. Lytle said the school board, the architect for the new project, and the financial advisor to the school district will be on hand Tuesday night to answer any questions that voters might have.

The new building would cover 21,500 square feet. It would be located south of the existing primary wing in front of the campus.

In answer to the question, "Will the existing high school building be abandoned," the school board has said, "No. This building is not adequate for the educational needs of a high school, but it may be used for community and school-related activities."

The total amount of the bond issue is $650,000, according to the fact sheet on the bond program.

To retire the debt, JISD taxes would need to be increased about 50 percent. As the school board has stated, "Education is not a cost; it is an investment in our youth."

Voting booths will be open March 29 from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. in the special services room at the Jarrell School. The presiding election judge is Gilbert Zuelhke; the alternate judge is Dorothy Jones.

Absentee voting has already started. The final day to vote absentee is Tuesday. The place to go is the superintendent's office at the Jarrell School.

All residents of the school district with a valid voter's registration certificate effective on or before February 26 are eligible to vote in the bond election.

Separate boxes will be set up for taxpayers and non-taxpayers.

The ballot will contain two propositions:

- The first would permit the school board to increase the maintenance tax up to $1.50 per $100 assessment for the operation of the new school. The present maintenance tax is set at $1.30.

- The second proposition would authorize the school board to sell bonds totaling $650,000 and to levy a tax to pay the principal and interest on the bonds.

To issue the bonds, the two propositions must pass in both the taxpayers' voting box and in the combined voting boxes.

The school board will meet on Monday, March 31, to canvass the votes.

Cattlemen plan beef promotion

The Beef Promotion day, scheduled May 10 by the Williamson County chapter of the Independent Cattlemen's Association is still on schedule, the ICA learned in Jonah Monday night.

Although the parade in Taylor is no longer involved, the Association is now making plans to give away a side of beef and two quarters. The action will take place at the American Legion Hall in Taylor.

In addition, the Association will feature a barbeque of Williamson County beef and a hamburger meat sale of corn fed Williamson County cattle. The hamburger sale is expected to highlight the day, pointing out the differences between range fed and corn fed animals.

Also, the Association will sponsor a western dance that evening.

Local, state, and national politicians are invited to attend.

The Association sent a telegram to President Ford opposing Secretary of State Kissinger's demand that the United States purchase an additional one million pounds of foreign beef to stabilize foreign economies.

G'town-Austin banking merger called off

Negotiations regarding the proposed merger of First Texas Bancorp., Inc. of Georgetown, Texas, with The Bancapital Financial Corporation, of Austin, Texas have been terminated.

This action was reported jointly today by Robert T. Present, President of Bancapital, and Jay C. Sloan, President of First Texas Bancorp.

The preliminary agreement, announced August 9, 1974, contemplated the issuance of 310,833 Bancapital shares in exchange for all of the outstanding shares of First Texas Bancorp.

Following meetings of the respective Boards of Directors, negotiations were terminated due to the inability of the parties to reach a definitive agreement and plan of reorganization.

Commissioners to name depositories

Commissioners' court convenes at 10 a.m. in the Auditor's office, first floor of the courthouse.

Other items include a report from the sheriff concerning the county jail, modification of Title I grant of the Manpower consortium, and opening of bids on a dump trailer for Precinct No. 2.

Because license plate sales are about 40 percent behind schedule, the Williamson County Tax Office in the courthouse in Georgetown will stay open through the lunch hour this week, Monday through Friday.

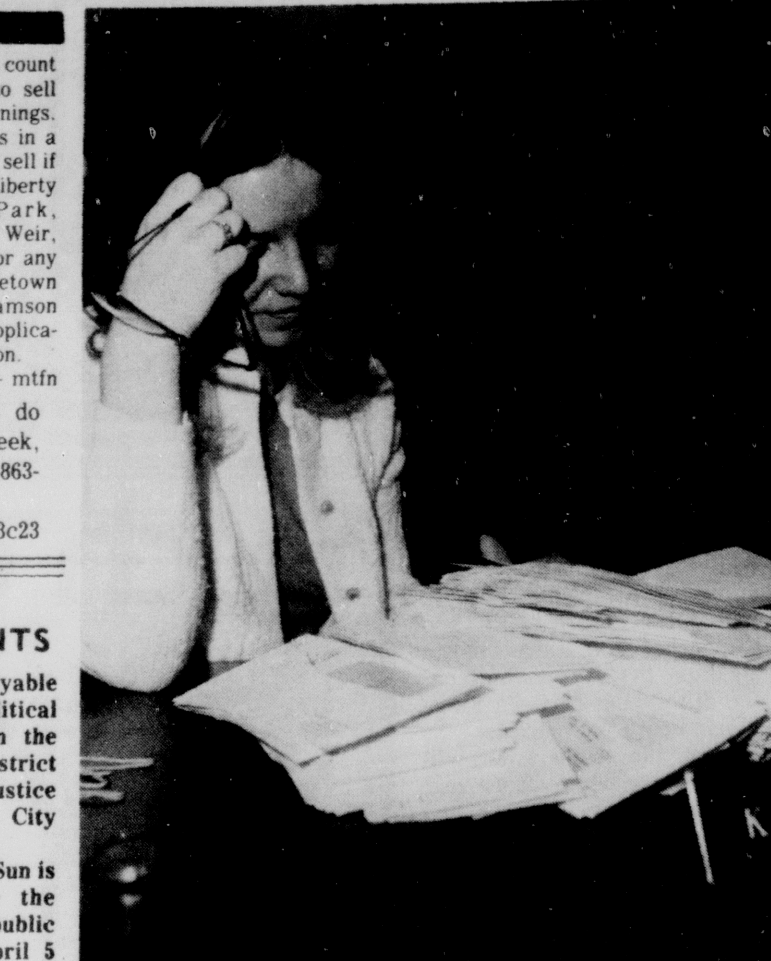

On March 31 and April 1, the office will remain open until all the car owners standing in line register their vehicles.

By law, all motor vehicles

Tax office stays open during noon must display 1975 license plates by midnight, April 1.

Car owners are asked to bring their 3-part notifications from the state in order to speed up the licensing process.

FRUSTRATING JOB — Kathy Casteel, deputy tax assessor-collector for the City of Georgetown, tries to sift through the pile of tax statements that were returned to the city because of insufficient addresses.

Caluette searches for address-less local taxpayers

Several hundred property owners in Georgetown have not received their 1974 tax statements because they failed to notify the city of a change in address, Robert Caluette, city tax-assessor-collector, said.

Caluette said that according to state law, it's the taxpayer's responsibility to contact the tax office about a new address.

Pointing to the letters returned by the post office, he noted, "These people will probably be mighty angry when we do track down their correct addresses, because the taxes are already delinquent and subject to a penalty."

"But the law on this matter is that the property owner is obligated to notify us when he or she has a change in address."

The problem is a common one for the tax collectors for the Georgetown School District, Williamson County government, and other local cities, Caluette said.

He will meet with the county and school tax collectors to try to update the addresses on hard-to-find taxpayers.

Caluette said it would be a good idea later this year for property owners to come to the city tax office and check the property value listed under their name on the tax roll.

School board to interview principal hopeful

Georgetown School Board members will meet Monday night in executive session to interview a candidate for the position of high school principal. The meeting begins at 7 p.m. at the administrative office.

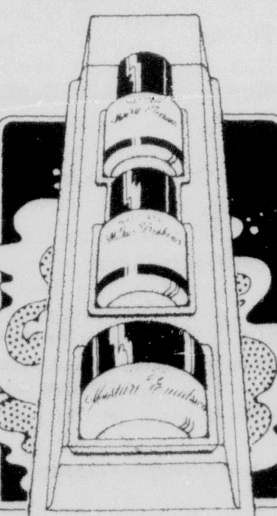

Supt. Jack Frost said the candidate will be interviewed Monday in special session because he lives out of state and will be in this area.

Dr. Elroy Otte, high school principal, resigned in February stating that he did not feel he "had the full confidence of the superintendent."

In open session, trustees will consider the approval of wiring for the vocational building at the new high school.

Clean-Up Week notices sent to residents

The Georgetown City Building Department has sent notices about next month's clean-up campaign to local property owners who appear to be in violation of the city housing code.

"The annual Spring Clean-Up Week in the City of Georgetown will be from April 14 through April 18," the notice states. "This will be the time to dispose of any and all trash, dead trees, garbage, old cars, ice boxes, refrigerators, stoves, building materials and other items for free.

"Crews will be out in force to haul it away," the letters explain.

"If you have anything too heavy to move to the curb for pickup, call the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce at 863-2251 or 863-5282 during Clean-Up Week and the Chamber will schedule a crew and the equipment to do the job."

Tom Sams, city building official, noted that legal action might be taken against property owners who violate the code unless the trash is cleaned up. According to the housing code, "... It shall be unlawful for the owner or occupant of a residential building, structure or property to utilize the premises of such residential property for the open storage of any abandoned motor vehicle (one that is in a state of disrepair and incapable of being moved under its own power), ice box, refrigerator, stove, glass, building material, building rubbish or similar items."

"It shall be the duty and responsibility of every such owner or occupant to keep the premises of such residential property clean and to remove from the premises all such abandoned items as listed above, including but not limited to, weeds, dead trees, trash, garbage, etc."

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

The American Democracy is the most perfect form of government that has ever been devised by mankind, and it is recognized as such by the majority of the world's people. The only way that any government can be maintained equitably is through taxation. We in America have a voice in our government through the elective process, and we also share in the support of our government through a taxation program that is based on the ability to pay — the more a person has the more taxes he is asked to pay. Surely, no one can say that this is not a fair way to pay for what we in America enjoy so bountifully.

The Liberty Hill School will be a member of District 56B when school opens its Basketball Season for the 1975-76 school year. At the time of this writing there has been no word received by the LH News concerning the status of the Football competition for this Fall.

The Liberty Hill Girl's Ninth Grade Volleyball Team plays Johnson City in the first round of the District Volleyball Tournament at Jarrell.

The Liberty Hill Girl's Ninth Grade Track Team will compete in the District Track Meet at Rockdale on April 1.

The Liberty Hill Boy's Track Team will compete in the District Track Meet at Rockdale on April 17.

On Saturday, March 22, there will be a CAR WASH at Petty's Hardware in Cedar Park between nine in the morning and four in the afternoon. The Band Teacher, Rhane Hoppe, will provide transportation for a loan of students from the school house at eight-thirty Saturday morning. The other students should make arrangements to get to Cedar Park to help make this project a success. All students who plan to stay all day should take a sack lunch.

HUD director to give city certificate

Finnis Jolly, regional director of the US Department of Housing and Urban Development, will visit Georgetown this Friday to personally award Mayor Joe Crawford the official certificate of approval on the city's Community Development grant.

Jolly will make the presentation of the certification of the $228,000 federal grant during the Georgetown Rotary Club meeting, which begins at noon on March 28.

City Manager Leo Wood and Mayor Crawford will attend the luncheon to talk about the plans for the Community Development entitlement.

Before the Rotary Club meeting, Jolly will speak at an 11:15 a.m. press conference at City Hall.

Zion Lutheran sets schedule for Holy Week

Zion Lutheran Church in Walburg begins Holy Week with the Confirmation of 10 eighth-graders in the Palm Sunday Worship at 9 a.m. on March 23. There will also be a Roll Call Service at 7 p.m. on the same day.

Holy Communion will be celebrated on Maundy Thursday, March 27, at 7:30 p.m.

On Good Friday, March 28, St. Peter Lutheran and Zion Lutheran will hold joint services at 9 a.m. at Zion, with Rev. Bill Metting preaching the sermon.

On the same day there will be a Tenebrae Service at 7:30 p.m. A Sunrise Service, with a breakfast following, will be at 6:30 a.m. on Easter Sunday, March 30.

Another Easter service will begin at 9 a.m.

Our school will dismiss classes on Thursday evening, March 27, at the regular time and school will resume at the regular time on April 2, in observance of the Easter Holidays.

The Panther Booster Club has reported that the work on the tennis courts is well underway. As of Thursday morning the dirt work was almost finished and the asphalt is scheduled to be laid within the next week or two.

The Panther Boosters will have a workday at the school on Saturday, March 29, starting at ten in the morning. The Concession Stand needs to be finished and moved along with the bleachers. EVERYONE is urged to COME OUT and assist in this worthy project!

THE MENU for the Liberty Hill School Cafeteria for the week of March 24 through 27 is as follows: MONDAY — Surf Cake Patties with Tartar Sauce, French Fries with Cat-sup, Lettuce and Tomato salad, Jell-o with topping, and milk; TUESDAY — Turkey Rolls, spinach, potatoes, ice cream, and milk; WEDNESDAY — Hamburgers with lettuce, tomato, pickles and onions, French Fries and catsup, cookies and milk; THURSDAY — Roast with gravy, potatoes, mixed vegetables, cake and milk; FRIDAY — IS A HOLIDAY!

On Saturday, April 5, the Liberty Hill PTA will sponsor a Bazaar in downtown Liberty Hill. Hoppe's Emporium is one of the major projects of THE BAND BOOSTERS to raise money to send the Band Members to camp this Summer. Donations are needed for the booth for its SWEET CORNER, its PLANT CORNER and its BARGAIN CORNER. All donations for any of these can be brought to the school or given to Hazel Williams. ALL DONATIONS WILL BE GRATEFULLY ACCEPTED!

More projects are planned for April and May, and the parents will be contacted later; the support of the entire community is necessary to make this venture a success, so you will be informed as the projects develop.

The WILLIAMSON COUNTY FIFTH SUNDAY SINGING CONVENTION will be held on March 30, from two to four in the afternoon; this month's singing will be held at the Jonestown Baptist in Jonestown.

All leaders, soloists, and groups, are cordially URGED TO COME OUT and take part in this "Easter Sunday" event. Everyone who enjoys good singing, and good fellowship should plan to attend the FIFTH SUNDAY SINGING!

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ringstaff, good friends and good neighbors from Bertram were in town last Tuesday to bring us the news about The Fifth Sunday Singing Convention. It is always good to see these fine people and to know that Mr. and Mrs. Ringstaff are still enthusiastically supporting good singing!

We in Texas have the dubious honor of leading the Nation in the percentage of the young people who are smokers. Many National and Local Organizations and Adults are actively working to publicize the bad effect of smoking, but more must be done. "Surely, never before in the history of man has anything so harmful and so expensive as smoking gained such wide acceptance!" KEEP SMILING!

Alpha Lota Theta loses for good cause

On March 15 at 11 a.m. Alpha Lota Theta attempted to defeat Phi Delta Theta Fraternity in a benefit basketball game for Mrs. Janice Anderson.

Husbands and friends representing the sorority were Tommy Frist, Roy Inks, Byron Standard, and Larry Krueger. Members participating on the courts were Jean Inks, Joyce Dailey, Tina Walker, and Judy Whitefield.

Tommy Frist put the first two points on the score board for Alpha Lota Theta. Byron Standard led the scoring with eighteen points. Tommy Frist netted eight points. Jean Inks netted four more big points. Joyce Dailey and Roy Inks scored two points each. After an exhausting hour of play Alpha Lota Theta went home with a defeat of: Phi Delta Theta 47 - Alpha Lota Theta 34. Everyone enjoyed playing for a good cause. Cheering their team on from the stands were Karen Frist, Linda Cisneros, Ginger Krueger, Miranda Cisneros, Vicky Walker, Tiffany Walker, Dawn Whitfield, Robert Inks, Robin Inks, and Melanie Frist. After the game everyone met at Judy Whitefield's for refreshments.

Game and fish law hearing here Tuesday

Game and Fish Law hearings are scheduled for Williamson County for Tuesday, March 25, at 3 p.m. in the County Courtroom.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials will conduct the public hearing to present proposed changes in laws affecting fish, game animals and fur-bearing animals during the 1975-76 seasons.

Department executive director Clayton Garrison emphasized that the hearings are the first step toward setting regulations for all counties under the regulatory authority of the Parks and Wildlife Commission and urged that all interested citizens take advantage of the opportunity to make known their opinions. "Detailed reports of the hearings," said Garrison, "will be forwarded to the commission to be used when they consider changes in game and fish regulations prior to their April 28-29 meeting in Austin."

"Citizen participation at these hearings is essential if we are to establish meaningful fish and wildlife programs." One game law proposal is to change the bag limit in Williamson County to three deer, no more than two bucks. Last year's limit was two deer, no more than one buck.

Chief suggests law should set salaries for police officers

If police salaries were set by the state, the turnover rate in the police departments in small cities would not be so high, the top law enforcement official for the City of Georgetown said Thursday.

Police Chief John Shearin made that comment while discussing the recent resignations of Officer Doug Robertson and Lt. Johnny Randall. Both officers resigned this month to accept higher paying positions in larger cities.

"I might be criticized for this opinion," Shearin said, "but personally, I think a law should be passed to regulate the salaries for police officers across the state." He said such a proposal would help stop large police departments from raiding the smaller departments to recruit new officers; it would also increase the salaries in some of the smaller cities.

Shearin said he did not blame Robertson and Randall for moving on to higher paying jobs.

"Good police officers are in demand, and both of these men were very good officers," the police chief said.

All small towns and cities have a high turnover rate in their police departments, Shearin explained, because once an officer is certified by the state, he has an opportunity to move to a larger city with higher paying positions.

The departments in Taylor, Round Rock and other Central Texas cities have faced much worse employment problems than Georgetown police, he said.

An officer receives certification after he achieves 240 hours of classroom law enforcement work and one year's experience on the job.

With certification, an officer can draw a good-sized salary in a big city, Shearin said. Houston, for example, is presently advertising for 2000 police officers, with a starting salary of $1000 a month.

Georgetown pays its police officers $660 a month. "We're not underpaid," Shearin said. "Our salaries are just about average with other cities this size."

But Georgetown is unable to compete with the salaries offered by bigger cities such as Austin, he noted.

Prospective police officers just out of college have a chance to get fully certified if they can get a job with a police department for one year.

"It's hard to get that beginning job with a big department," Shearin explained. "But smaller departments will often give the uncertified officer a position."

"Sometimes, as soon as he's completed his one year, that officer immediately leaves for a larger department for more money."

The city doesn't have to be much bigger than Georgetown to offer more, Shearin said. For example, in every city with a population of 10,000 or more, each police officer receives civil service benefits.

The City of Georgetown offers more benefits to police than other cities of comparable size, Shearin said. Georgetown has excellent programs for insurance, hospitalization and retirement, he explained.

With the two recent resignations, the local police department has been reduced to four officers, the police chief and the dispatchers.

Two more officers will join the force on April 1, Shearin said. One is Douglas Dean Traver, who has just graduated from Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos with a degree in law enforcement and criminal law.

Traver, 23, has served a 1-year internship with the San Marcos Police Department, but his experience does not count toward his certification.

Van Valkenburg resigns

Dr. John Van Valkenburg, vice president for University Relations at Southwestern University, has resigned his position effective June 30 to take an administrative post with the University of Montevallo, Montevallo, Ala.

Southwestern University President Dr. Durwood Fleming made the announcement at a meeting of the University's Board of Trustees here Friday.

"Dr. Van Valkenburg's resignation as our Vice President for University Relations is genuinely regretted. He is an extraordinarily competent and dedicated colleague who has given strong leadership in the area of development and public relations; he has introduced Southwestern to new programs that have and will strengthen us in the immediate future," President Fleming said.

"As he assumes a similar position at the University of Montevallo, where his future professional possibilities will be very challenging, we express our best wishes to him and his family, along with our appreciation for this year of personal and professional association," he said.

Dr. Van Valkenburg came to Southwestern from Huntingdon College, Montgomery, Alabama, where he served as vice president for development. Prior to that he held a similar post with Morningside College. He had also served as dean of men at Adrian College where he earned his bachelor's degree in 1956 and where he received a LHD in 1970. He earned his master's at Michigan State University.

Dr. Van Valkenburg also serves as president of the Assn. of Colleges and Universities for International-Intercultural Studies (ACUUIS), a consortium of 36 colleges and universities that cooperate in studies abroad and in bringing international experiences to their own campuses.

"I submit my resignation to Southwestern with sincere regret," Van Valkenburg said.

"Southwestern has been a special challenge as we have worked together to build new programs and finish the $10-million Program for Progress. There has been a responsive spirit of enthusiasm and cooperation at all levels of the University to the University Relations programs," he said

Dr. Peterson to play dedicatory recital

Dr. Ellsworth Peterson, chairman of the music department and the Margaret Root Brown Professor of Fine Arts in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University, will play an organ recital on Sunday, March 23 at 3:00 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in Yoakum. This is the dedicatory recital for the church's new Schudi organ and will be built around the Holy Week theme.

The recital will include selections by Langlais, Couperin, Barber, Powell, Schiedt, Brahms, Howells and Leighton. The Rev. Joseph M. Ray is the minister of the church.

On Thursday, March 27, Dr.

Peterson will play an organ recital at the First United Methodist Church in Georgetown at 7 p.m. The recital, a meditation upon themes of Holy Week, will precede a Maundy Thursday communion service to be held at 8 p.m. This recital includes Langlais' "The Palms," Couperin's "Elevation," Barber's "Wondrous Love," Powell's "Go to Dark Gethsemane," Schiedt "When Jesus on the Cross Was Bound," Brahms' "O Sorrow Deep," Howells' "Saraband for the Morning of Easter," and Leighton's "Paeon."

The Rev. Tom Graves is the minister of the church.

TEXAS FIVE STATES?

There were several erroneous news reports recently that I was cosponsoring a public referendum to see whether Texans want to be divided into five different states.

It's a provocative idea, though I am not involved. Sen. Bob Gammage and Rep. Fred Agnich actually sponsored the proposal, reasoning that Texas would have 10 U. S. Senators if we split into five states — that would give us quite a bit more power than we now have in Congress.

OFF I-35 AND DOWN INTO THE UNDERPASS — at Jarrell at 4 a.m. Friday. This '68 Chevrolet Impala was driven by Stanley V. Calcote, 23, of Dallas. He and his passenger, 24-year old Charles Mellett, also of Dallas, were listed in critical condition at Brackenridge Hospital. The car was travelling north on I-35, left the northbound lane and went several hundred yards on the grassy median before going through the guard railing on the bridge over the underpass and crashed into the concrete embankment on the north side of the underpass, slid back down and came to rest at the lower edge of the embankment DPS officer Bob Eason was the investigating officer.

District Court disposes of 13 in February

The 26th District Court in Williamson County disposed of 13 criminal cases during February — 4 by conviction, 1 by acquittal, and 8 by dismissal.

During the month, 15 new cases were added to the court's criminal docket.

The figures are listed in the 26th District Court's monthly report to the Texas Civil Judicial Council. The report was completed this week.

The figures are listed in the 26th District Court's monthly report to the Texas Civil Judicial Council. The report was completed this week.

On February 1, the 94 pending criminal cases included 2 assaults to murder, 10 burglaries, 18 felony cases of driving while intoxicated, 2 forgeries, 5 murder cases, 3 rapes, 2 robberies, 8 thefts, 6 cases of possession of marijuana, 4 "other drug cases," and 34 "other criminal cases."

During the month, 4 burglaries, 4 felony DWIs, 1 forgery, 5 thefts, and 1 "other" criminal case were filed by indictment.

Four subjects were convicted in February: 1 for burglary, 1 for possession of marijuana, 1 for possession of other drugs and 1 for an unlisted criminal offense.

Sentences were assessed at 7 years in prison for the burglary conviction; 180 days in jail for marijuana possession; 2 years in prison for the other drug possession conviction; and 7 years for the "other" criminal conviction.

Probations were granted in all cases except the possession of hard drugs.

In other criminal dispositions during the month of February, 1 criminal case was acquitted.

Dismissals included 4 burglaries (1 for insufficient evidence and 3 because the defendants were convicted in other cases), 1 felony DWI (because of insufficient evidence), 1 robbery (because of some "other reason"), and 2 thefts (1 because the case was refilled and 1 because of some "other reason").

The pending cases at the end of February include 2 assaults to murder, 9 burglaries, 21 felony DWIs, 3 forgeries, 5 murders, 3 rapes, 1 robbery, 11 thefts, 5 possessions of marijuana, 3 other drug possession cases and 33 other criminal cases.

wastewater treatment plant, parks and possibly another swimming pool, and street repair.

HINESLEY said he is "excited about being a resident and citizen of Georgetown because I love this city." He expressed his support for City Manager Leo Wood.

Although Georgetown has had good planning in the past, he said it must continue to promote carefully-planned growth.

Hinesley said he has served 10 years in a local bank and he has been an independent businessman. He said that he decided to run because William Eanes, another local banker, decided not to seek re-election to the City Council. "We need a 'numbers man' on the council," Hinesley said. He added that his training as a businessman lends itself to making decisions in city government.

LORAN C. JONES, a printer, said that he doesn't have the business experience that the other candidates might have, "but I'm level-headed and I'm in touch with the problems and needs of Georgetown."

"I will do everything in my power to make decisions for the good of everyone in Georgetown," he added.

WIGGY SHELL said that as a commissioner on the Georgetown Housing Authority, he is familiar with the problems of the elderly in Georgetown. He said he will serve all the citizens of Georgetown, "whether they are rich or poor."

He said he is concerned with utility rates in Georgetown. Shell added that he is familiar with the gas and telephone systems in the city. "I know what it is to give time to the community," Shell said. "If elected, I will do my best to serve the people."

Shell said he will work to increase the number of parks in the Georgetown area.

JOHN DOERFLER said his main reason for running for a council seat is that he wants to get involved with the most fundamental part of government. He added that he is "younger than a lot of people. A fellow first stepping into a council position has much to learn." He described himself as an "open-minded conservative" and he will take the time to reason out problems.

He is in favor of the water system project that the city is planning near the North Fork dam. He also supports controlled, orderly growth.

He said he will study the utility rates and park space and that he will work to increase the police department. Doerfler said he supports City Manager Wood, but that he is not afraid to vote against a city manager's recommendation.

DEBBIE RIDDLE described herself as a "mother and businesswomen" and said one of her assets is her "approachability."

"People can call me in the middle of the day and say, 'Look, I'm worried about this,'" Riddle said. "I'll be there to listen." She said she would be able to better represent "a women's point of view" on the City Council.

Women would more easily come to her to talk about city problems, she added.

Riddle said she would work for more community involvement and better use of the Georgetown Citizens Advisory Commission.

"Georgetown is growing, but not all growth is progress," she said. She stressed the need for city planning and for more park space.

Riddle will also support historical zoning and child care facilities in Georgetown.

★ Council meets percent for the Georgetown-Jarrell exchange.

"My recommendation is nothing like Mr. Nall's," Hopper said Friday. He noted that the telephone company was willing to settle for the first consultant's recommendation; Tuesday afternoon, however, General Telephone will be fighting mad, Hopper said.

"I'll be in a combat situation," Hopper explained. He added that he is ready to stand by and defend his recommendation to the City Council.

During a pre-trial hearing on General Telephone's lawsuit against the city for higher rates, city officials agreed to consider action on granting at least part of the rate increase demanded by the phone company.

That was one of the reasons the lawsuit was dismissed.

General Telephone has indicated it will try to take the city to court again if the City Council does not take affirmative action toward a rate increase in late March or early April.

Joe M. Nall, the city's first rate consultant, trimmed the request about 20 percent and came up with a recommendation for a 33 percent business rate increase and a 20 percent residential rate increase.

Liberty Hill nominees speak at PTA program

Candidates for the Liberty Hill School Board were grilled Thursday night during a PTA meeting in the school cafeteria.

The question-and-answer session sponsored by the Liberty Hill Parent-Teacher Association gave voters a chance to take a close look at Robert Moore, unopposed candidate for Place 1; and Charles Carlisle and Donnie Holloway, hopefuls in the Place 2 race.

THE FIRST QUESTION asked by concerned parents was: What action should be taken against delinquent taxpayers in the Liberty Hill School District?

Carlisle stated, "Every property owner should pay his taxes." He said that when taxes become delinquent for a full Holloway replied, "The school district is not in business to make money and does not operate as a bank does." He said that although everyone should pay his taxes, the school board should not make it a practice to sue people who don't.

"I can't see spending money on a law firm to collect delinquent taxes," Holloway added. He said he opposes the action taken by the school trustees this week to increase the interest rate on delinquent taxes to 10 percent. Holloway would favor some percentage penalty attached to delinquent taxes, however.

Moore stated that the situation of taxation must be equal and fair. Any system of action against delinquent taxpayers should allow the school board to take hardship cases under special consideration, he said. Legal action should be taken against "persistent cases and repeated cases," he added.

QUESTION NO. 2 was: Should the Liberty Hill School District pay its teachers a salary above the minimum set by the state?

Carlisle was in support of the recent decision by the Liberty Hill School Board to give teachers a pay incentive of up to $350. He called it an "excellent idea" and said it helps the school district to get the "cream of the crop" for the Liberty Hill faculty.

Holloway noted that Liberty Hill is "just getting started now. I don't see where you could give a pay incentive." He said now teachers should not receive a salary above the state minimum, but that a "reasonable schedule" should be worked out to reward teachers who stay with the Liberty Hill School District for a "good time." He suggested a yearly consideration of teachers salaries.

Moore said that a "quality educational system demands quality teachers." Presently in Liberty Hill, there are some good teachers who live in the community and have a "vested interest" in the school district, he said. Moore added that "excellence will move away unless the school district pays for it."

QUESTION NO. 3 was: What elective courses should be offered at the Liberty Hill School?

Carlisle said that the drop-out rate in Liberty Hill and other areas is an "increasing problem. The reason for it is that in some cases, education does not fill the needs of the students."

He noted that in the Liberty Hill area, less than 10 percent of the high school graduates go on to college. Carlisle recommended that, without ignoring academic courses, the school district should concentrate on developing a strong vocational program.

Holloway said that the offering of electives by the school board should be the result of research. He said the board should work to provide courses for whatever field "a student wants to go into."

Moore replied that the Liberty Hill electives should cover "not all the fields, but some of them." He said the school board should choose the offering of electives with "an idea of which subject areas are needed."

Specifically, he suggested having courses in business, such as typing, shorthand and accounting; occupation-oriented programs, such as welding, woodwork, and auto mechanics; and cultural and literary programs, including a foreign language.

THE PTA ALSO ASKED the candidates: Are the present taxes levied by the Liberty Hill School District excessive?

Carlisle said that, based on other school districts he has lived in, Liberty Hill taxes are not excessive. He said that although the tax rate is high, the property values on the tax rolls are low.

Holloway noted that "everything has gone up," and taxes are no exception. He did not consider the present Liberty Hill taxes excessive.

Moore also said that the present tax structure is not excessive. "Every dollar collected has a just cause" in the school district's budget, he explained.

QUESTION NO. 5 WAS: Should the president of the PTA be an unofficial member of the school board?

Carlisle said he would favor the proposal. "It's an excellent idea and it will keep the school trustees better informed."

Holloway replied, "I can't see that it would hurt anything" to have the PTA president on the board.

Moore said he did not see a "real need for it at the present time, because the organization of the school board meetings now allows for freedom of expression."

He said the board sessions are structured to permit comments from the audience to the school board. If the PTA president is allowed to serve in an unofficial capacity, then other interest groups would be entitled to the same opportunity, Moore added.

Asked how they felt about setting aside 15 minutes at each board meeting for hearing comments from the audience, the candidates responded this way: Moore said he is in favor of the idea, "although the actual application of this concept would probably exceed 15 minutes."

Holloway replied that the time should depend on the problem and that the time should not be limited.

Carlisle said he does not favor setting aside a specific time for comments from the floor. "I'd much rather have audience participation on an issue at the same time the issue is being considered by the board," he said. The audience should be able to approach the school board and make comments at any time, he added.

Holloway considered the preparations for making Liberty Hill an accredited high school as the most pressing problem the school district faces. "This has priority," he said.

Moore said that the school district has the big task of providing a quality education in the present nine grades while developing programs for the coming three grades.

He said the school board needs understanding and assistance from the community. Taxpayers must recognize the "magnitude of the needs of the school district as they relate to dollars," he added.

Carlisle stated, "Amen," to Moore's reply and added that the school district must concentrate on organization and planning for the future. He stressed the need for vocational-oriented programs and for a quality counselor and guidance system.

He said that a guidance program will help students choose their goals and that the school system will assist students in preparing for those goals.
